

FIRST OF UNEMPLOYED GO TO WORK MONDAY

PROJECTS ARE DESIGNATED BY HIGHWAY DEPT.

First Work Will Be In Dixon And Amboy It Is Announced

The first group of Dixon's unemployed men, at present on the relief rolls, will report at the city hall at 8 o'clock Monday morning to start work on the state highways near Dixon. It is expected that 100 men will be put to work in Dixon and 20 from Amboy. The offices of the state Highway Department here will work Sunday and Monday night, completing programs to be started Monday morning.

The program as outlined for the Dixon group:

Building of foot path beginning at the east city limits and extending east toward the cement plant, along state highway, route 2. A group of 30 men will be started to work on this project.

20 men will be used in another group, working south of Dixon on state highway, route 89, sloping banks and grubbing stumps.

30 men will be used east of Dixon on state route 6, the Lincoln Highway, removing trees and stumps in the vicinity of the Crawford Maple corners.

20 men will be taken north of the city on state route 26, where stumps will be moved, back slopes reduced and other improvements will be started in the vicinity of the Plum Hollow Gilt Club.

Amboy Project
At Amboy a group of 20 unemployed men will report at Wiley's garage at 8 o'clock Monday morning to be taken to route 89, where they will begin work, sloping banks and removing stumps south of the Walton spur.

In Ogle county, the outlined improvement to be carried on under the supervision of the state Highway Department includes work along state highways routes 70, north of Rochelle, route 2 north of Oregon and route 26 north of Oregon. The work to be undertaken will consist of cutting back slopes and grubbing trees and stumps along the three routes. On route 2, vistas along Rock river will be opened, carrying out the plan of beautification of the Black Hawk Trail which was started two years ago.

In Whiteside county, the work will largely be assigned to the improvement of state aid roads. Several men will be employed in back sloping of banks and widening shoulders along the Lincoln Highway between Sterling and Morris.

Transportation, Tools
Similar programs are being worked out for the other counties of the district coming under the supervision of the local district offices. Highway department trucks will be used in transporting the workmen to and from the jobs and equipment and tools will be furnished by the highway department.

With the continuation of the program, it is expected that the larger percentage of the unemployed, now on the relief rolls, will be used on city, township and county projects, the surplus to be turned over to the state Highway Department.

It is expected that one group will be started working west of Franklin Grove widening and banking the present dangerous curves, as soon as the plans can be formulated. Several other projects are under consideration under the unemployed program.

Engineers and the maintenance force of the local District Highway offices were swamped today working out of plans for the work relief program. Clyde Ross and J. R. McDaniels have been assigned the task of outlining projects to be undertaken in the district.

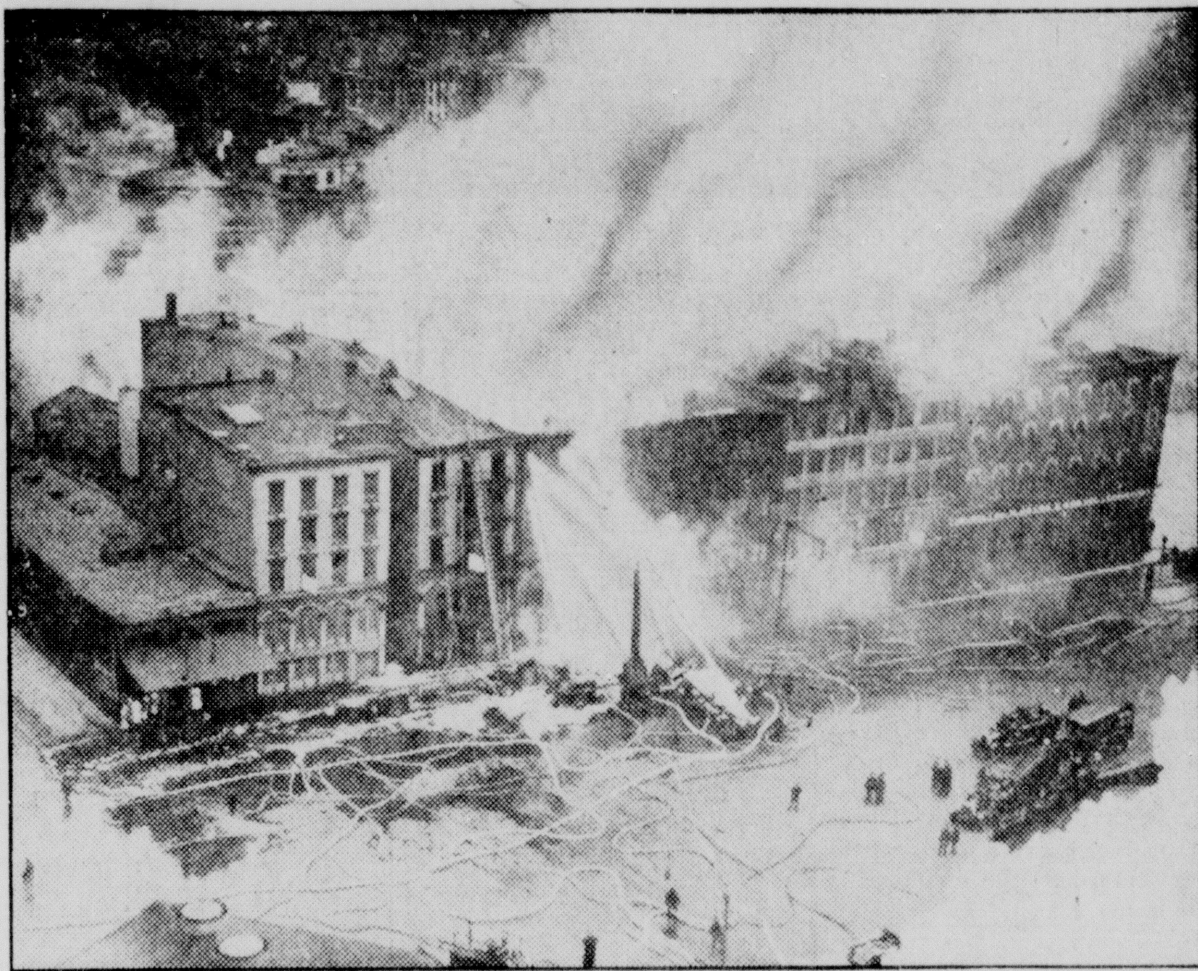

Programs to be undertaken by the city of Dixon, Dixon township and Lee county will be outlined the first of the week, the representatives being present at a general meeting in Chicago today, where final instructions are being issued.

Red Cross Radio Program Tomorrow

The Red Cross radio program, originally scheduled for Nov. 11, but forced off the air at that time so Gen. Hugh Johnson, NRA chief, could speak, will be broadcast tomorrow evening over the NBC network from 9:45 to 10:15 CST. Floyd Gibbons will be master of ceremonies; there will be music by the U. S. Navy band; an address by Judge Payne, president of the Red Cross; a talk by Fred Cushman of Tarrytown, N. Y., school boy who rescued a girl from drowning in the Hudson river; a demonstration of Red Cross nursing activities by Miss Elizabeth Lowrey of Lebanon, Va., and numerous other features.

Battle Spectacular Blaze Under Lash of Winter

As winter's entry brought its annual "epidemic" of fires throughout the country, Philadelphia firemen met a bitter ordeal battling the spectacular blaze which swept a paper company plant as pictured here. A fireboat, rushed near the conflagration, supplied the water for the network of hoses in the foreground.

National Chamber of Commerce Asks Early Return of Country to Gold Basis for Its Currency

While Roosevelt Dubs Opponents to His Schemes "Tories"

Washington, Nov. 18 —(AP)—President Roosevelt hit out in Georgia today at those who oppose his monetary experimentation as "Tories" akin to those of 1776, while at the same time in Washington the Board of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States unanimously demanded "early return to a gold basis, with complete avoidance of monetary experimentation."

To a Savannah throng celebrating the Georgia bicentennial, the President recalled that experimentation was opposed by "Tories" when George Washington "conducted another great experiment in 1776."

Meanwhile, his Acting Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., proceeded with the gold buying policy that has aroused National Chamber of Commerce to protest. For the fifth day, the RFC price for new domestic gold was held at $33.56 an ounce, apparently in an endeavor toward steadying the dollar in world markets.

From the closed doors of the Chamber of Commerce Board meeting, copies of the monetary resolution were dispatched to all newspaper offices. It asked "that there be an immediate announcement of intention of an early return to a gold basis, with complete avoidance of monetary experimentation, currency manipulation, greenbackism and fiat money and with complete recession from theoretical or arbitrary ideas of 'price-index' fixation of the value of gold."

WARM SOUP AND MILK WILL BE GIVEN CHILDREN

Activities of Community Kitchen Start Monday Morning

The activities of the Dixon Loyalty League community kitchen will be started Monday when it will resume serving soup and milk to the children of the city schools. The committee in charge has completed the canvass with the school officials and finds that a large number of children are in need of this valuable service this winter, the number exceeding that of last season.

The committee after canvassing the schools of the city find that a total of 258 children will be fed beginning Monday. At the beginning of the service last winter, the program started with the feeding of 148 children and this grew until the number reached a total of 254 at the close of the school year. The public is invited and urged to visit and inspect the kitchen and donations will be gladly received. The feeding of the children is a community undertaking and the benefits received by the children are extensive. The cost to any single individual will be very small and will not become a burden.

If the 71 judges of the Great Sanhedrin, supreme Hebrew tribunal, rendered a quick and unanimous verdict of guilty, the defendant was acquitted because it was believed that such a decision showed either conspiracy or a lack of calm deliberation.

RECOGNITION OF SOVIET RUSSIA IS PROCLAIMED

Religious Freedom, No Propaganda In New Agreement

Washington, Nov. 18 —(AP)—The United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics are bound in a new relationship which they hope "may forever remain normal and friendly."

Those were the words with which President Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinoff closed the 16-year-old gap in official kinship. They were in Roosevelt's letter informing Litvinoff that "the United States has decided to establish normal diplomatic relations" with the Soviet Union, and the Russian Commissioner's reply that his government "is glad" to do likewise.

Already William C. Bullitt, State Department expert on Russian affairs, has been designated as the first American Ambassador to Moscow since the Soviet took control in 1917. Russian acceptance of his appointment is expected momentarily.

Effective Last Night

Recognition, effective as of 10:50 P. M. CST. Thursday, was announced by Roosevelt just before departing for Warm Springs, Ga. A little while later, Litvinoff told newspapermen a hope "cherished for 16 years has been realized."

Accompanying the announcement was an exchange of letters between the President and the Soviet Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, setting forth new understandings on major issues which had separated the two nations since 1917.

These included:
1. A mutual agreement to prevent subversive propaganda, such as activities of any organization or group "which has as an aim the overthrow or the preparation for the overthrow of, or the bringing about by force of a change in the political or social order" of either government.

This was regarded by some officials here as a further break between the Soviet government and the Third International which might be interpreted as a warning to this world-wide Communist organization to leave Russia or halt any efforts directed against American democracy. Asked the question, Litvinoff said: "Don't read intentions into my letter which are not there."

Religious Freedom

2. A Russian guarantee of full freedom of religious worship and rites to United States nationals, with the further promise that no American will be refused visas on purely ecclesiastical grounds.

3. A statement of Moscow's intention to write into a consular convention a grant of legal protection to American citizens equal to existing most-favored-nation treatment. This will include a notification to Consuls of any arrests and becomes effective immediately.

4. An explanation by Litvinoff, in reply to Roosevelt's questions on prosecutions for economic espionage, stating that the right to obtain economic information in Russia is limited "as on other countries, only in the case of the employment of forbidden methods (bribery, theft, fraud, etc.) to obtain such information."

5. A Soviet release to the United States government, preparatory to a final settlement, of any claims which might be due the Soviet government as the successors of prior Russian governments. Roosevelt said he would notify Moscow of any amounts realized on such claims.

To Show Good Will

6. A Soviet waiver to any claims arising from the Siberian expedition of American armed forces subsequent to 1918. This did not include, however, the Archangel expedition. Litvinoff said the waiver was made "to show our good will" and because the United States had recognized at the time the territorial integrity of the Soviet Union.

Roosevelt and Litvinoff joined in a statement on claims which said: "In addition to the agreements which we have signed today, there has taken place an exchange of views with regard to methods of settling all outstanding questions of indebtedness and claims that permits us to hope for a speedy and satisfactory solution of these questions which both our governments desire to have out of the way as soon as possible. Litvinoff will remain in Washington for several days for further discussions."

The Soviet Commissioner later said he thought these questions could be solved through normal diplomatic channels. American private and governmental claims run from $600,000,000 to $700,000,000.

Aside from these major points, both Roosevelt and Litvinoff stressed in their recognition letters the hope that "our nations henceforth may cooperate for their mutual benefit and for the preservation of the peace of the world."

Litvinoff, in a talk to members of the press, forecast increasing unity "in the field of economics, culture and the struggle for peace." He expressed the hope that "really normal relations" and "really friendly relations" rather than simply the conventional diplomatic interchange, would prevail.

Speculation centered on the letter.

LEGISLATURE IS CALLED TO MEET ON WEDNESDAY

Liquor Control Laws To Be Only Business of Term

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18 —(AP)—The call for the second special session of the Illinois legislature, to meet at 10 A. M. Wednesday and confine its activities to liquor control, was issued today by Governor Horner.

Horner plans to call a third special session to consider a long list of other issues upon which legislative action has been asked.

Meeting Wednesday, the legislators will have less than two weeks to consider liquor legislation before the formal repeal of prohibition. It is highly improbable that agreement can be reached on a taxing and control program before December 5.

VARSITY TRIMS ALUMNI FRIDAY BY 12-0 SCORE

Best Crowd Of Season Saw Game Yesterday Afternoon

By Bradley Moll

Coach Lindell's varsity griders defeated the alumni at the high school athletic field yesterday afternoon before the largest crowd of the season by a score of 12 to 0. The game was played under ideal weather conditions. The teams were evenly matched and some thrilling plays were demonstrated by both crews.

The first score came in the opening period when, with the ball in the alumni territory, Henry dropped back to the 30 yard stripe and snapped a pass to Belows, who took only a few steps and was across the line for the first tally. The attempt to pass for the extra point failed and the count stood 6 to 0 in favor of the varsity.

The second score came in the fourth quarter, when the varsity displayed their skill and Knapp broke through the alumni line, blocked Bevey's attempt to kick out of danger, recovered the ball back of the goal line and registered another touchdown. The attempt for the extra point, another pass, failed and the score stood 12 to 0 in the varsity's favor.

The varsity was up against a tougher game than usually played by the first score.

RED TAPE IS ORDERED CUT BY U. S. AGENT

Relief Officials Are Told To Work Fast To Speed Program

Chicago, Nov. 18 —(AP)— Unemployment relief officials from Illinois' 102 counties were instructed today to "work fast and don't stop for red tape" in the drive to put 187,850 of the state's jobless to work on federal Civil Works projects.

Howard O. Hunter, district representative of the Civil Works Administration, said the federal funds might be expended for any public project "so long as it is socially desirable and can be started very quickly." He said any "red tape" that might surround the work will not be placed there by the federal government.

Outlining the program to take the unemployed off relief works, and place them on jobs, Hunter told the relief officials that rules surrounding expenditure of the funds were extremely liberal and that speed in creating jobs was the first objective.

Others Get Work Too
Hunter explained that thousands of persons over the nation who have managed to exist without accepting relief work also be given jobs.

"These people need a break as much as the ones actually receiving charity," Hunter said. "About half of those getting jobs will be from the ranks of those who have bravely managed to live without relief."

In Illinois, he said, any person older than 16 years will be eligible for a job. Rates of pay will be 50 cents an hour for unskilled labor and $1.20 for skilled labor. "All the work must be on a day labor basis, he said, and not contract. He said cities and counties would be allowed to purchase materials from the funds only in cases of necessity.

"Politics will not enter into this program at all," Hunter said. "The only thing to be considered in granting work will be whether the applicant needs a job and whether he is physically fit."

Registration Offices
Roy Jacobsen, State Director of the United States Employment Service, said that by Dec. 1 committees would be set up in every county of the state for registration of job applicants not on relief rolls but entitled to jobs.

He said it was possible a registration place might be established in every sizeable town. Hunter cited statistics showing about 3,500,000 families or 15,000,000 persons, were on relief rolls November 1 in Illinois. He said the average relief payments were 50 cents a day for each family, which amount he described as "not acceptable income to any American family."

Each worker will be given 30 hours employment per week, providing pay of $15 a week to unskilled labor and $36 a week for skilled workers.

Protest Wages
The Illinois Manufacturers Association today protested the wage rates as "artificial and unduly high."

About 300 delegates were present at today's meeting. Among them in attendance were State Treasurer John C. Martin, Joseph J. Rice, State Director of Finance and Victor Clander, Secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

"This is an employment program—not a relief program," Hunter told the officials. "None of the usual qualifications for relief are to be considered. There is to be no distinction between single men and married men. The purpose is to supply a job for a man who has none."

"If a man doesn't work — fire him!"

No Garnishment
Hunter declared none of the money paid workers could be touched by creditors, and that it was not subject to garnishment.

In answer to questions from the floor, he said the workers should be employed 20 hours a week, or 130 hours a month. These, he explained, were not minimum or maximum hours, but the exact hours the government desired. If bad weather prevented a full work week, the worker should be allowed to make up the lost time within 20 days.

Robert J. Dunham, Chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, told the relief officials his office, which all the projects have to be approved, will be able to furnish the approval within 12 or 24 hours after the plans have been submitted.

Hunter declared he wanted much of the work started on Monday and a great deal on Tuesday.

To Be Insured
Asked about workmen's compensation deals, he said plans had not been completed, but that the government would not be a party to

SERVICE

YOU may grow to great riches and glory;
You may toil for yourself through the day;
You may write in your record the story,
The struggles you have met on the way.
But vain is the fame that you boast of,
And wasted the years that you can scan,
Your strength you have not made the most of,
If you've rendered no service to man.

If something of you isn't living,
Long after your spirit has fled;
If your hand ceases toiling and giving,
The minute your body is dead,
You have quitted this world as a debtor,
And failed in the Infinite Plan.
If you leave not one roadway that's better,
You have rendered no service to man!

For the things men are planning and doing

Must be for the joys of us all;
The sun of the goal we're pursuing Unselfishly, world-wide must fall.
And if nobody's burdens are lighter

Than when your poor beings began,
You have dimly failed as a fighter,
For you've rendered no service to man.

Blue Horses, Plaid Monkeys, Christmas Toys for Willie

By RUTH COWAN
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

Chicago, Nov. 18 —(AP)—Blue horses with red lined ears and plaid monkeys—they're here, and so are pink rabbits, pin striped dogs and yellow cats as the advance guard of the new 1933 Christmas toys.

The plush Teddy bear, the stuffed dog and the fuzzy white kitten are back, too, but they have some rivals as pigs, in three's, and vases big and bad, are making their debut in toyland.
Another rising star in the toy animal field is the donkey. Oh, yes, the elephant is there, too. Both can be found stuffed and mounted on wheels to be pulled. And they are in sizes large enough to rival the hobby horse.

There is a new lamb out—a sort of a modernistic bit of fleece. His yellow lined ears are large and floppy. His long stuffed legs are floppy too, and they won't do for him to stand on.

Last year's blondes are being turned into this year's redheads with a new wig in the doll department. And when it comes to make-up, well, seeing is believing. How much good a touch of paint does doll.

In the section that particularly appeals to boys, there is a new fire chief's auto with a siren that would bring any fireman on the run.

As is the case each year, toys reflected in the miniature the growing up world, and with a new streamline, rubber tired train being tried out, a few and quite expensive copies in toys are being shown.

Sister Mary's Recipe for You Delicious Holiday Fruit Cake

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Staff Writer

In the lull that comes after the fall cleaning and preserving are finished, the home-maker should bake her holiday fruit cake. By Christmas time it will be ripened to perfection and ready for gifts and holiday festivities.

Fruit cake of any variety, be it the traditional rich black cake or the less expensive but equally delicious cake regulated to modern conditions, is the easiest of all cakes to bake because it's so full of fruits and nuts that there's no chance for it to "fall." Baked in rather small loaves in the modern heat-controlled oven, it won't burn or become crusty on the edges and corners.

Steaming and then baking insure a thoroughly done, moist cake. Remember that thorough cooking is imperative if the cake is to keep indefinitely and the perfect fruit cake is moist and "plummy."

Money, time and work are ingredients of fruit cake as well as eggs and sugar, but the return is well worth while. If mixing and baking facilities are limited, half the recipe can be used. And if time is precious, the citron, and lemon and orange peels can be purchased shredded and ready for use. The nuts can be bought all picked out and the raisins seeded.

Thorough baking and the use of strong coffee infusion or fruit juice in the place of milk will make a moist, delicious cake that will keep indefinitely. Brandy, which was supposed to be the preservative for fruit cake is not used in this recipe. Chocolate is added for richness and color but may be omitted if preferred.

And now for the recipe!

Rich Black Fruit Cake
One cup butter, 1 cup lard or other shortening, 1 cup light brown sugar, 10 eggs, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup liquid orange juice, sweet cider or grape juice), 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon each powdered cinnamon and allspice, 2 teaspoons grated nutmeg, 1 teaspoon powdered cloves, 3-4 cake bitter chocolate, 2 pounds seeded raisins, 1 pound seedless raisins, 1 pound cleaned currants, 1-3 pound candied cherries, 1-3 pound candied pineapple, 1-4 pound candied lemon peel, 1-4 pound candied orange peel, 2-1/2 cups blanched and shredded almonds, 2 tablespoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon salt.

Prepare fruit and almonds. If citron and peels must be sliced and minced, warm well before cutting. Cut cherries in halves and pineapple in thin slices. Mix prepared fruits and stir one cup of flour over them. Stir with a fork until thoroughly coated. Cream shortening and gradually beat in sugar. Sift in one cup of flour and beat hard. Add eggs well beaten and beat this mixture well. Add molasses, chocolate melted over hot water and the liquid. Mix thoroughly and add remaining flour mixed and sifted several times with spices and soda and salt. Add to batter with prepared fruits, nuts and vanilla and stir until smooth and perfectly blended. Turn into loaf cake pans lined with heavy parchment paper. Stretch and tie the heavy waxed or parchment paper over each loaf of cake and steam three hours. Remove from steamer and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven.

When cake is taken from the oven, place in a clean towel on a cake cooler. Pull cloth over pan to completely cover it. Let stand fifteen minutes and remove pan. Turn cake right side up and let stand until cold. Then wrap closely in heavy waxed paper and store in a tight tin box until wanted. Allow at least three weeks for the cake to ripen before using.

Helpful Hints For Housewives

PLAN A GOBBLING PARTY FOR THANKSGIVING FUN

Start planning early for a gobbling party as a Thanksgiving treat for the children. So word the invitations that the guests will know that they may gobble as much as they wish both in talk and in eating! It will do away with the initial shyness of a children's party to start off the gaiety with a gobbling or talking match—seeing who can outtalk the other. For refreshments, ginger cookies and orange ice.

Novelty Eggs

Here's a new idea in egg preparation. Beat the whites of as many eggs as necessary for the number of people to be at the meal. See that the white is good and stiff. Add salt and pepper. Drop several spoonfuls on pieces of toast, hot and waiting. In the center of each mound put an unbroken egg yolk. Put in a quick oven until the white is a warm, deep brown. Serve at once with touches of parsley.

Soup A Mid-Morning Meal

Making nourishing soup in sufficient quantity to last several days is a good idea, particularly where there are children. For a cup of soup and a few toasted crackers make a good mid-morning meal.

Housekeeping Tips

Cranberry jelly poured into a shallow pan and when stiff cut into small shapes makes effective garnishes for salads or meats. Small cookie molds or biscuit cutters can be used.

For variety add a few hickory nuts, pecans or filberts to the pumpkin pie filling before it is baked.

Tasty canapés can be made by mixing salad dressing with sor-dines and chopped pickles and spreading on bars of hot buttered toast. These can be served with fish or vegetable juice cocktails.

To aid in preventing the under crust of a pie from becoming soaked with the filling, such as pumpkin or custard pie, brush the lower crust with unbeaten egg white before adding the filling.

Barbara Stanwyck Fights Lameness

Hollywood, Nov. 18 —(AP)—Only Barbara Stanwyck's close friends knew until today that while preparations for her next picture go ahead, the actress herself is fighting a desperate battle against permanent lameness and possible disfigurement.

A double back and hip injury resulting from two film accidents has never completely healed and Miss Stanwyck's recent collapse in Boston aggravated the condition.

Determined to keep her troubles to herself, Miss Stanwyck refuses to talk about the injury, and plans to start her next film "Gambling Lady" on schedule. To do this, it was learned from a friend today, she is taking heroic measures under her doctor's orders, to improve her condition.

She sleeps strapped to a specially designed board which relieves pressure on the injured bones and she spends four hours daily under lights and X-rays. It is generally understood that unless the injury is carefully treated it might result in a shortening of one leg and a permanent lameness.

Bliss Is Named To State Position

Governor Horner announced the appointment yesterday of Clinton P. Bliss, publisher of the Montgomery County News, as assistant director of the state department of registration and education. Mr. Bliss fills a vacancy caused by resignation some time ago of Mrs. Eva Batterson, Springfield, who entered the federal home loan organization.

Mr. Bliss has been engaged in the newspaper business for many years. At a recent meeting of the Illinois Press Association, he was named vice president of the organization but resigned because H. L. Williamson was re-elected secretary. — Illinois State Journal, Springfield, Nov. 10, 1933.

(At the time Mr. Bliss resigned, the newspapers carried a story that Mr. Bliss had been promised an appointment by Governor Horner if he would resign his place as Vice President of the Illinois Press Association.)

THE VANISHING WILDFOWL.

To get up early in the morning and stand knee-deep in cold water or mud, or to sit, or kneel in water, camou-flagged by a bunch of hay, reeds or bushes, and then to be rewarded by a shot at a few lonely wild ducks as they whistle by may be fun. To shoot these birds may be a sport. Looking at it at close range, it is sport. But taking the broad view, to exterminate several whole races of wildfowl is not sportsmanship.There are persons living who can remember enormous autumn flights of wildfowl when the whole sky seemed literally crowded with these now disappearing birds. At the present rate, the present generation will see them practically gone. The next generation will regard them as an interesting, perhaps romantic item of history.The very best legislation and all the propaganda that can be offered by naturalists and conservationists can do little to save the wildfowl unless the hunters themselves revise their mistaken ideas of sportsmanship and give the game a chance. By draining natural breeding, nesting and feeding places of the birds we have done much to exterminate them. The establishment of game preserves does little good as long as the preserves are ringed with camps which will neither let the birds in nor out.To invite an enemy to dinner and then shoot him is considered a violation of the law of hospitality. To bait a pond with wild rice or other grain, lure the birds there and then shoot them is considered sportsmanship, yet one of the first rules of sportsmanship is that the game should have at least a fifty-fifty chance of escape. To establish such a false feeding ground for one's own hunting is bad enough, but to commercialize it, and guarantee the customer a bag of game borders on wickedness. To sell wild-fowl you have shot yourself is against the rules, but to permit others to shoot wildfowl you have lured to the grounds is all right, perhaps.In their economic aspect the birds are not worth raid on public treasuries to employ armies of game wardens to watch every mud puddle and lake, and more wardens than there are can scarcely be hired by the revenue from hunting licenses. So far as we know, it will do mankind little harm if the whole assortment of tribes of ducks and geese is wiped out, whether this fall or twenty years hence.
Probably it will make little difference to the ducks and geese, either.If they are to be considered merely as something to shoot at, we may as well shoot at them and have it over.
But the way we are doing it is not sportsmanship collectively, although it may be sport individually.If they are to be considered as splendid specimens of animal life, worth watching and studying, and remarkable to see as their V-shape formation wings southward at airplane speed; and if we should care to consider the other hazards they encounter, the swoop of the eagle and hawk and the prowling rodents that take heavy toll; and if we should be sentimental enough to believe that the tribe as well as the individual should have an opportunity to live, we ought to be gentlemen about it.

THWARTING JUSTICE.

If you would like to know about one of the dodges which enable crooks to escape punishment for their misdeeds, consider the plight of Mrs. Clara Alt of Chicago.Mrs. Alt's home was burglarized in 1928. Twenty times since then Mrs. Alt has gone to court prepared to testify against the men who have been charged with the crime; and each time the case has been continued, so that Mrs. Alt has had the fun of going to the courthouse 20 times for nothing.The other day a new hearing was scheduled. Mrs. Alt was on a women's committee to welcome Mrs. Roosevelt to the World's Fair, so she didn't go to court. She was sent for and fined $10 for staying away.If you can think of any system of court procedure better calculated to help the crook defeat justice, there are plenty of slippery lawyers who would be very glad to hear from you.The faith that other nations had in our military equipment in 1914 saved us from becoming involved in the World War.—President Edmund Schulthess of Switzerland.Men are often called upon to admire spectacles involving not only force but brute violence. This is contrary to Christian education as well as the sentiments of human dignity and purity.—Pope Pius XI.I can write two briefs setting up the constitutionality and the unconstitutionality of the NRA and do both with good conscience.—Prof. Thomas R. Powell of Harvard.I do not understand the Roosevelt plan. Neither does Mr. Roosevelt. Please do not ask me to explain it. Ask the brainstorm trust.—Sir A. M. Samuel, British currency expert.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Timinies saw old man Blow drift out of sight. One said,
"I know that he has been real friendly, but perhaps he's fooled us all.""He said Star Island was nearby, and that we'd find it in the sky.
My hunch, however, is that we are going to take a fall.""Whoever heard of floating 'round like this, far, far above the ground? We're heavier than air.
That's why I know we'll take a flop.
Then Scouty said, 'Oh, goodness me, how pessimistic you can be.
Why don't you hold your tongue, at least until we start to drop?'""I think Blow is a magic man.
You know that magic people can do lots of very funny things. I am not going to fret.""We'll likely float around a while and then we'll land upon Star Isle.
I'm hoping, when we do, we'll have the best time we've had yet."Apparently we Scouty was correct in his belief because the Timinieskept on floating. Shortly Doty cried, "Hurray!"
"I see a strange place just below. I'll bet that's where we're going to go. I hope we land before night comes to take the place of day."And then they whirled around a bit and Duncy cried, "We're nearing it!" The next thing that the Timinies knew, they landed on the isle."Well, here we are," cried Doty.
"Gee, I wonder what we're going to see." A very strange man then walked up, to greet them with a smile.He loudly shouted, "Hello, there!
I saw you coming through the air.
You're landed at the right time, cause the moon has just come out.
"I am the Star Man. You will find that I am always very kind. I am going to show you Timinies what this place is all about."(The Timinies see a lot of shooting stars in the next story.)

Lloyd Farver was born June 29,
1851, in Pennsylvania, and died November 13, 1933, at the home of his son, Jesse Guy Farver, north of this place at the age of 82 years 4 months, and 15 days.In Columbia county, Pennesyl-vania, he was united in marriage with Miss Mary Anne Kline, Aug.
6, 1870. With his young bride he came west in the early seventies to brave the hardships of a pioneer life, and to make their home.
Since 1876 they lived in this community. They moved to Ashton in 1914, where they resided until the death of his wife in 1922. On account of failing health, Mr. Far-ver was forced to give up active life and made his home with his son.In 1920, Mr. and Mrs. Farver celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at which time they received the congratulations of many friends and relatives. The deceased is the last of a large family of twelve. The deceased was a brother of the late T. W. Farver of this place and was well known here.Surviving him are his children:
William B. Mrs. Anna Beach, Oscar, Perry, George, Lester and Jesse. With the exception of Oscar who resides in Pennsylvania, all the above children live in this community. Also there are seventeen grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.In 1890, under the pastorate of Rev. George M. Bassett, he joined with the Methodist church and remained a faithful member until death.Funeral services were conducted in the home of his son, Guy, Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 15. In the evening, pastor of the local Methodist church had charge of the service. Interment in the Ashton cemetery.Obituary Word was received here Monday night of the death of William L.
Wertman at his home in Detroit, Mich.The deceased was the son of Jacob and Mary (Shellhammer) Wertman and was born in this community about 73 years ago. He was the youngest of four children.
Thomas (deceased), Alice (Mrs.
Warren Dysart) of Minnesota, and Charles Wertman (aged 83 years) of Milford, Neb.The earlier part of his life he lived on the farm of his parents, now owned by Carl Spangler on the Lincoln Highway. At the time of his father's death, he was married to Miss Katherine Smith, and for some years as a farmer in this community.About the year 1900, he sold his farm here to Harvey Spangler and moved to South Haven, Mich., where he lived for a number of years on a fruit farm, growing peaches. He later moved to Detroit, Mich., where he held a position with the street car company of that city for several years.He was the father of four children: Mary, the oldest, who was bought here for burial in 1916; Asnes of Denver, Colo.; Macon and Charles, both of Detroit, who with his mother, are left to mourn his passing.Mr. Wertman was of a cheerful, jovial, kindly disposition and was well liked by all who knew him.The President's Salary
The President's salary has been changed only twice. An act of September 24, 1789, allowed George Washington a salary of $25,000 a year during his term of office. An other act dated February 18, 1793 fixed the salary of the President of the United States from and after March 3 of that year at $25,000.
This law remained in force until the act of March 3, 1873, increased the salary of the President to $50,000.
The act of March 4, 1909, raised it to $75,000.HEALO is an excellent Foot Pow-

TO THE HONORABLE CHAIRMAN AND MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF LEE COUNTY, ILLINOIS:
The Building Committee of Lee County Board of Supervisors, after considering the following resolution and recommendation:
WHEREAS, it has been the custom for several years past to hold the Board of Supervisors at the County House in Dixon, and WHEREAS, great injury and damage being done to the lawn and sidewalk wherein such band concerts are held, and
WHEREAS, it is believed that it is for the best interests of the People of the County that such band concerts be discontinued and permission to hold same be withdrawn by the County Board of Supervisors because of injury and damage being done to the property of the County;

Your committee therefore recommends that the foregoing resolution be adopted by this Board to the reasons above mentioned and no cause or any animosity or prejudice against the Dixon Municipal Band or any musical organization, but only for the purpose of preserving in its present state of repair and beauty the ground surrounding the Court House and for the further purpose of saving the tax payers of this County from further expenditure for repairs to the County property.

ROSS KEEPS HIS LESSER TITLE IN CLOSE DECISION

Defeats Fuller By Narrow Margin In Chicago Stadium

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Barney Ross still held title to the junior welterweight championship of the world today, but his grip on the synthetic honor was not as firm as it might have been.

Making his first appearance before a home crowd since he took the world lightweight and junior welter titles away from Tony Canzoneri last June, the youngster from Chicago's west side worked out a close decision over rugged Sammy Fuller of Boston, in a ten round battle at the Chicago Stadium last night.

The less important of the titles was at stake, and Fuller came close enough to split the decision of the referee and judges.

In his eagerness to give the home folks a good show, Ross probably did himself little good by slugging with the stocky, round-eyed Bostonian. He was too smart and active to give Fuller a chance to do real damage with sweeping lefts and rights, but the latter made enough of a showing to disappoint a big share of the 11,430 spectators.

As the boys left the ring Fuller received something amounting almost to an ovation.

Instead of employing his boxing skill, Ross slugged whenever Fuller wished. He managed to maintain mastery of the situation, even though it was close. He fought in gusts and when he bore down thumped Fuller around busily. The chubby Fuller was credited with only two of the 10 rounds, but Ross' margins in the others were slight. Fuller had a pull of three and one-half pounds in the weights, scaling 139, to 135½ for the champion.

The judges' opinions were at odds. Livingston Osborne called it a draw, while William Battye voted for Ross, 57 to 43. Referee Joe McNamara decided it in favor of the titleholder by the close margin of 51 to 49. The show marked the opening of Chicago's major boxing season and attracted $21,163 worth of customers.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou
BROOKMAN
© 1933 MEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
On a stormy November evening DAVID BANNISTER meets a pretty blond girl and offers her a lift in the cab in which he is riding. Her handbag opens and he sees a revolver inside.

Next morning Bannister reads that TRACY KING, orchestra leader, has been found dead in his apartment. Police are searching for an "unknown blond," who visited King the night before. Bannister, remembering the girl in the taxi, is puzzled.

He sees her again that morning. The girl tells him her name is JULIET FRANCE and swears she knows nothing of the murder. She begs Bannister to help her and he agrees.

He goes to see his old friend, JIM PAXTON, editor of the Tremont Post, and arranges to work on the King murder case for the Post. Later he returns to the hotel to see Juliet France and learns she has disappeared.

Bannister goes to see the room in which King died. As he stands in the doorway something lands on his back.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER IX

THE pain in his back was sharp and knife-like. Bannister's face twisted in agony but he did not cry out. It was his assailant that became vocal with a sharp, angry, "Me-ow!" and then repeated it again, "Me-ow! me-ow!"

A cat! It must be a cat. Bannister twisted about, reaching for the animal. The cat evidently did not like such handling and objected. Its claws dug deeper, as it tried to maintain its precarious position. At last Bannister had the animal in a firm grip, pulled it about in front of him.

But was it a cat? Bannister had never seen such a creature. For a moment he thought it was a monkey. No, it couldn't be. It was drawing away from him, issuing hissing noises that were unmistakably unfriendly, unmistakably feline.

All this while Bannister had been kneeling. Now he set the animal on the floor, got to his feet. "Me-ow!" cried the cat and backed away.

The fur over its eyes and nose and covering its chin was very dark — almost black — with the definite outline of a mask. From out this mask bright blue eyes gazed with a sinister leer. The ears were dark, too, and the feet and tail. The rest of the body was brown, shading from rich cafe-au-lait on the back to creamy ivory on the chest.

A cat? Yes. Bannister knew what it was now. The masked face made it look rather like a monkey or a raccoon but it was a cat all right. A Siamese cat, a member of that cat family known as "royal" because for centuries they were pets of Siamese royalty.

The cat withdrew still farther, circled uncertainly and then leaped nimbly to a window ledge. There it sat, steadily regarding Bannister.

The man rubbed his bruised shoulders. "All right," he said, "we'll call it a truce—so long as you don't try that trick again! Lord, what claws! Keep your distance and I'll keep mine."

There were two windows in the bedroom. One on the south and one on the west. Bannister stepped to the nearest of them and looked out. Nothing below but a smooth plot of grass in the court. Beyond was the rear wing of the building, jutting out, just as did this central wing. Certainly there was no access to that window from above or below.

HE MOVED to the other window. A two-story cottage, white with a green roof, stood below

Bannister stooped quickly and picked it up.

hind a boxwood hedge. It was a neat cottage, rather old-fashioned. Shades were drawn at the windows. Bannister knew the place. It belonged to old Judge Price, retired now and living in Florida.

But there was nothing to be seen from that window to explain the brownish stain on the carpet. That, of course, must be where they had found Tracy King's body.

Bannister turned, giving his attention once more to the interior of the bedroom. It must have been rather untidy even before the detectives had made their search. There seemed to be so much in the room: a bed; a chest of drawers—several of them pulled out and spilling their contents; two chairs, one of white leather of modernistic design; a night table holding a carafe and empty glass; a wardrobe trunk tilted on end; a small radio. Golf clubs sprawled in one corner. There was a stack of music on the radiator and a pile of magazines on the floor. There seemed to be ever so many smaller articles in the room, too — brushes and toilet articles on top of the chest of drawers; a large mirror above it; a photograph in a silver frame showing a pretty girl smiling — Denise Lang; a cocktail shaker on the trunk; a sweater and suit of clothes hanging across the back of one of the chairs. On the wall Bannister noted a large framed photograph of Tracy King himself. There were some other things which Bannister assumed to be theatrical acquaintances. One he recognized as a Broadway star. Most of these photographs had inscriptions written across one corner.

Yes, the place was certainly chaotic. And yet there was nothing there that seemed out of keeping with what Bannister had learned about Tracy King. A vain man, no doubt. Extravagant or he would not have been living at the Shelby Arms. A young man who liked to give parties, judging from the tall glasses and bottles Bannister had seen in the living room. A young man, above all, who liked to have a good time and generally succeeded.

HE closed the door with a murmur, half of disgust. It was just as he turned to go back to the living room that the object on the floor caught his eye. Bannister stooped quickly and picked it up. He was studying it a moment later when he heard the outer door open. Bannister dropped the object inside his pocket. An instant later Link, the hotel clerk, appeared in the bedroom doorway.

"Sorry to be gone so long," he apologized. "I thought it would only be a moment but there are so many things—" He did not complete the sentence. "The place is upset," he went on. "Nothing goes right; it's been that way since last night."

"I can imagine," Bannister said dryly. "Mind showing me just how King was lying when you found him?"

The clerk agreed willingly but his description—even the demonstration he attempted — was not very clear. Bannister decided that he would have to have a look at the police photographs.

Suddenly the cat on the window ledge jumped down. Link saw it and said, "Oh, there's Rajah! I don't know what's to become of him! Mr. King thought the world of that cat. Used to bring people here especially to see him. I told the maid to see that Rajah got his meat this morning. Mr. King always had it sent in regularly. It's a valuable cat, you know. Very valuable. What's to become of it now I'm sure I don't know!"

"How about King's relatives?" Bannister asked. "Haven't they been notified?"

"If they have nobody has told me about it," the clerk said, rather aggrieved. "I suppose someone will have to take care of all these things—"

WITH a wave of his hand he indicated the personal possessions of the dead orchestra leader. "Somebody will have to attend to all this," he said. "Until there are some sort of orders everything will be left here just as it is now."

There was a small bath leading off the bedroom. Bannister inspected it, then returned to the living room.

He crossed to the windows and looked down. "No fire escapes around here, are there?" he asked.

"They're at the rear," Bannister was poking about the papers on the desk. "If it was the girl who shot him," he said suddenly, "how do you figure that she got away?"

"There's a stairway," Link explained. "It's just back of the elevator. She could have gone down the stairway and into the laundry. Then she could have crossed the hall to the tradesmen's entrance."

"And gone out the rear way," Bannister nodded solemnly. "Oh, I see!"

"It must have been the girl," Link insisted. "She was the only one who came up here."

"You saw her, did you?" Bannister asked. "Yes, and I'd know her anywhere again. Couldn't miss that green outfit."

"Suppose she wore something else?"

"I'd know her anyway," the hotel clerk declared emphatically. "I'd know her the minute I saw her!"

Bannister explored the room for another 10 minutes. There was little to be gained there, he thought, but he wanted to fix certain details in his mind. Then he said, "Well, I guess I'm through here."

They rode down to the first floor. Bannister thanked the clerk and took his leave. But he was less than half way across the lobby when a voice stopped him.

It was a woman's voice. "Just a minute, young man!" it called. "Just a minute!"

Bannister turned. He faced a short woman in a blue and gray sweater suit, hurrying toward him. The woman's cheeks were quite pink; her hair was a slightly faded titian, and her voice was determined.

"I want to see you!" the woman declared.

STARTLING NEW BASE BALL RULE BRINGS DEBATE

Doubt the Intentional Pass Ban Will Be Permitted

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Minor league baseball officials traveling homeward today from their annual convention here debated the Southern Association's startling new rule designed to prevent the issuance of intentional bases on balls to heavy hitters in the pinches.

The rule, adopted yesterday, provides that when two are out and one or more runners are on base, the pitching of four straight balls means that "any and all runners shall advance two bases, except in the event both second and third bases are occupied, the runner on second shall advance to third."

Baseball men said the change perhaps was the most radical since the leagues legislated against the splitter, the caddy ball and other trick pitching deliveries 13 years ago. Some of them did not believe the National Playing Rules Committee would permit it.

As the rule now stands, it would apply even if one or two strikes had come over the plate before the four straight balls were thrown. Club representatives, said however, that they had not intended that effect and undoubtedly would change the wording at a subsequent meeting.

The rule is applicable even if the four consecutive balls are unintentional.

Now Old Grads Are Seeking Game With High School Eleven

The old grads of the Dixon high school, many of whom viewed yesterday afternoon's game between the '33 Alumni and the Varsity teams, now seek to display their wares on the gridiron. This brought forth a challenge today from the old grads directed to the Alumni, and already, plans are being made to stage the game at an early date.

Such a game would bring together of the old grad team such former high school stars as George Wolford, "Wink" McReynolds, Ray Daniels, Joe Woods and many others. Fifteen former high school stars have already expressed a willingness to participate in such a contest. Members of the high school faculty were to be consulted today in an effort to secure the north side athletic field for such a game, the proceeds from which will probably be divided to apply to the deficit in the high school athletic association and the Loyalty League Community kitchen.

ONLY 2614 FANS PAID TO SEE N. Y. BOXING SHOW

Hamas-Ramage Bout Fails To Interest Ring Followers

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Steve Hamas, young New Jersey heavyweight, has taken the "rubber match" of his series with Lee Ramage to the tune of a new all-time low record for attendance at Madison Square Garden.

Precisely 2,614 customers, contributing to net receipts of only $4,890, saw the former Penn State fullback plough his way to a decision over Ramage, San Diego youngster, over the ten round route last night. Not in the memory of the oldest inhabitant have so few patrons paid so little money for a Garden boxing show.

A clever boxer with a neat left hand, Ramage lost the decision mostly because of his lack of aggressiveness. As it was he took the eye of one judge but the other voted for Hamas and Referee Andy Griffin cast the deciding vote in Hamas' favor. It was the fourth meeting between the two youngsters. Each previously had won a decision while a third bout ended in a draw.

DIXON COUNCIL OF UNEMPLOYED WRITE PROTESTS

Address Resolutions To Governor And State
Officers

The Dixon Council of Unemployed has sent copies of the following resolution to Gov. Henry Horner and the Representatives from the Thirteenth Congressional district:

To the Honorable Governor Henry Horner of the State of Illinois and Representatives of the Thirteenth Congressional District now serving the people of the State of Illinois as their representative government.

We the people of the Unemployed Council at stated meeting adopted said resolution.

Whereas the Democratic administration of the State of Illinois has discharged competent employees of the Dixon State Hospital and other state vocations, living in Lee County, at a time when economy is very essential and replaced said employees with men and women who are not as competent and who do not live in Lee County or this part of the state, and this being done with the knowledge of the acute unemployment situation prevailing in this vicinity, and

Whereas needed improvements such as road-resurfacing and road building have been promised to relieve this unemployment situation, none has been allocated to this section, while other sections get their improvements our unemployed are idle with more people being discharged regularly, and

Whereas the unemployed have been forced to seek food, clothing, and shelter from the Emergency Relief only to find that said relief constitutes a diet that is just a slow starvation for said unemployed. While we have absolute facts that other people in other parts of the state who find themselves forced out of employment are at least being fed, clothed, and given shelter.

We can only come to the conclusion that we the people of Lee County are being discriminated against, and be it resolved that we as "red blooded" Americans, citizens of the great State of Illinois, do not intend to remain silent while such discrimination exists.

We condemn as unsound, economically, the practice of discharging efficient, skilled employees of Lee County at a time when economy is such a vital factor in our economic life.

We condemn as unfair, partial and unethical the tactics of an administration that has sworn to represent ALL sections of our great state, but which has been so grossly unfair with our section.

And be it further resolved that unless these grievances are adjusted we shall be forced to believe that the Democratic administration, now in power in the State of Illinois is not the party of all the people and all sections, but of a few favored sections and we will use all influences we possess and all the power given to us by the Constitution of these United States to defeat their selfish purpose.

Daily Health Talk

BONE-SOFTENING

There is a disease condition originally described by the German scientist von Recklinghausen, in 1891, and which since has been called von Recklinghausen's disease, or osteomalacia.

It is not a very common disease, but it is a painfully distressing condition at one time virtually always fatal.

The disease has the following features: The victim suffers pain and tenderness of the bones, muscular weakness, lack of appetite, together with nausea, vomiting, and abdominal cramps. He is constantly thirsty and voids large quantities of urine. He is also disposed to the formation of kidney stones.

As the disease progresses, the patient wastes away. His bones lose their calcium, become soft and may break under insignificant strain.

Until some eight years ago this malady was a complete mystery and physicians were largely helpless in combating it.

By the cooperation of a variety of specialties in medicine, it has been demonstrated that von Recklinghausen's disease is due to a tumor involving one of the glands of internal secretion called the parathyroid. Von Recklinghausen's disease is therefore now called hyperparathyroidism.

The parathyroids which are small glands located in the region of the thyroid, have a marked influence on the utilization of calcium by the body. When some of the parathyroid bodies develop tumors, the clinical picture of osteomalacia results.

Removal of the parathyroid tumor brings about dramatic changes and in at least 52 recorded cases, a definite cure.

A few years later they came to this country, residing at Crooksville, Ill. Two sons and two daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Conrad, of whom, one, Herman, met a tragic death in 1915 when he was run down by a Northwestern passenger train while crossing the tracks. He was an industrious worker, a good neighbor and had the respect of the communities in which he had lived. He was a member and a regular attendant of St. Paul's Lutheran church in Rochelle, where funeral services were held Friday afternoon, the pastor Rev. O. H. Linne-meter being in charge and burial being in the family lot at Lawnridge cemetery.

"THE PERFECT TRIBUTE"

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

Three score and ten years ago November 19th, 1863, Lincoln stood on the battle-field of Gettysburg, to dedicate the cemetery.

It was an autumn day, when flying clouds dappled the landscape with light and shadow, amid an apocalypse of rich, mellow coloring. On a temporary platform he stood, tall, gaunt, his giant figure worn thin by service and sorrow, his face the color of pale bronze; his eyes, deep-sunk, two pits of brooding shadow, as he took from his pocket a piece of paper, adjusted his glasses, and read a few words.

When he had finished, he put the paper into his pocket, took off his glasses, and sat down—the people wondering why he had so little to say on such a solemn day. What Everett had said was oratory.

what Lincoln read was poetry, born of a luminous vision-moment.

Not until the London Times framed his address as a classic of the race, did the world discover what the great and simple words of a great and simple man meant summing up his own life, as well as the life, genius, purpose, and prophecy of the and he was born to serve.

For once the man and the hour met, and his words had in them every element of immortality—passion, patience, destiny. Such words are deeds; they have a life of their own and they grow. They people the vacuity of time and make it rich.

God of dreams! What a scene at Gettysburg fifty years later, when the men of blue and grey met in reunion, and re-enacted the scene; their ranks thinned by time and death. Once more the men who followed Pickett crossed the meadow, tottering with age, blinded not by smoke, but by tears. Once more at the stone wall, they did not shoot their foes, but shook hands with their friends, and wept together.

Even so, that it might be fulfilled as was spoken by the prophet-President, who knew it would be so when the clouds had lifted and the conflict had become a chorus, "when again touched, as surely it will be, by the better angels of our nature."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Last night's meeting at the Baptist church was well attended and the preacher, the Rev. James Giesle, brought a splendid message on the subject, "Has Cain Come to Our City to Stay?" He pointed out that the race of Cain was not yet finished. There were many who wanted to approach God on the basis of their own works and not on the merits of the Blood of the Son of God. Abel brought his lamb as an emblem of the Lamb of God who taketh away the sins of the world but Cain brought of the fruits of the ground that God had cursed and not of the Blood, refusing to acknowledge his sins. Are we ignoring God's Way of Salvation today? The campaign will continue until Nov. 24th. Rev. Gillespie will speak at 10:45 A. M. on: "The Model Preacher, The Model Sermon, The Model Convert." In the afternoon at 2:30 P. M. there will be a children's meeting and in the evening at 7:30 P. M. he will speak on "How a City Official Was Saved?" Everybody welcome. Come.

Vatican City

Vatican City includes St. Peter's, the Vatican palace and museum, covering more than 13 acres, the Vatican gardens and neighboring buildings between Viale Vaticano and the church. Thirteen buildings in Rome, although outside the boundaries, enjoy extraterritorial rights; these include buildings housing the congregations or officers necessary for the administration of the Holy See.

People's Economy Coal

All reports to date are good. It is low in ash, seems to be free from all clinkers, holds fire well, burns freely and compares favorably with the best Southern Illinois coals. We have the exclusive contract on the mine for this district which is a large producer and owing to the low freight rate we are able to sell it for

$5.50—Delivered

Do not get the impression that because the price is low that it is not a good fuel. It is great.
